

EDITORIAL

Dear Colleagues,

We aimed to present a rich content in this volume with the contribution of our publishing team and esteemed authors. Our efforts to upgrade our journal to the next level continue with every volume. In parallel with the increase in the number of manuscripts submitted, our journal has been published in FOUR volumes annually since the 10th volume. We believe this period will help shorten the waiting time for publishing. In addition to PubMed, the application process for SCOPUS has also started. Moreover, we continue to expand the editorial board.

This volume includes six research articles, three literature reviews and one case report on various fields.

We kindly seek for your support to increase the readability and availability of the articles published in our journal, and we express our gratitude to you wishing to develop further through your suggestions and criticism.

Best regards,

Associate Professor Nurhan Eren
